

Ashdown Forest Summer Photography Competition

As we move into autumn, the Forest is changing – the heather is starting to bloom, covering the landscape with a purple hue; fungi are appearing in the woods and open heath; plants and trees are bearing fruit and the leaves are preparing to fall; the weather and light is different every day.

There is no better time to go out with your camera.

We are launching a photo competition open to all. We will be running the competition seasonally and the winner's photo will be used as the cover photo on our website and social media pages.

Entry to the competition is free. Email your photos to us by 30th September 2019. The photos should reflect the Forest in late summer and early autumn and can be of wildlife or landscape (no photographs of people please).

The photos will be judged by the staff and volunteers at the Ashdown Forest Centre.

Photographs should be sent by email to conservators@ashdownforest.org. Please include your name, address and contact number with a title for your photo.

Terms & Conditions:

- The competition is free to enter and open to everyone
- By entering the competition, the photographer is accepting these Terms and Conditions.
- Each entrant may enter one photo in the landscape category and one photo in the wildlife category.
- Digital entries only (JPEG files and be the best quality available).
- Entries must not include text
- Entries must not include recognisable adults or children
- Respect the environment while taking your photos and avoid causing damage to the habitat or distress to any wildlife.
- All photographs submitted must be your own work and must not infringe any third-party copyright.
- Your details will not be passed on to any third party without your permission.
- The Conservators of Ashdown Forest reserve the right to free reproduction and use of the image to promote their work. Photographers will be credited if an image is used. The photographer retains the copyright of photographs.
